Excerpt: .as much in the lessons as in our informal meetings, when--feeling free from the fetters of strict duty--they gave vent to their artistic impulses, unhampered by didactical considerations). Listly, all those young ladies need private lessons whose parents are either too rich, or too narrow (or both) to allow them to mingle with the common herd --in these horrid classes; they must take their lessons at home, and, if possible, in the same parlor in which, ou the same evening, they will sit from 9 P.ii until 14 o clock, with nothing but one poor young man for entertainment. Furthermore, invalids, and also those unfortunate advanced pupils who have to be done all over again, need private lessons; but they are, after all, exceptions. I am through, ladies and gentlemen, and I feel keenly that I am open to the special criticism, among a...
